

“Between every two pines is a doorway to a new world.” - John Muir

The Gifted Tree welcomes you to the virtual world of finding your tree planting location. As you know, someone has planted a gift tree in honor of you or someone you love. Your tree has been or will be planted in the Apache-Sitgreaves National Forests, Arizona. Apache-Sitgreaves comprises over 2 million acres of beautiful land located in east-central Arizona. This vast area is best known for its lands brimming with natural resources and diverse wildlife.

The planting project focuses on reforesting high severity burn areas within the fire scar in the Black River watershed. Your tree planting, including Ponderosa pines and Douglas fir species, will help restart the process with the reforesting of the tree stands lost in fires and to reestablish forest cover to improve watershed quality and promote biodiversity for endangered, threatened, and sensitive plant and wildlife habitat (like the Mexican spotted owl and New Mexican jumping mouse, and the Heber Wild Horse Territory) - a win for the ecological quality of the forest and benefit the overall environment in the area.

You can view the general area of your planting by clicking on the following link:

Once connected to the map, feel free to zoom in and out to get a feel of the general planting area, its location in Arizona, the United States, and the world. The link is best viewed using a personal computer.

Please understand that this is the general area of your tree planting as our reforestation projects take place in a number of regions of the forest. Your tree is planted among thousands of other gift trees and there is no plaque designating your gift tree. It is not possible to visit the tree.

Enjoy your gifted tree and know that it is making a monumental difference for the earth and opening a new doorway to the world for future generations.
