

“Between every two pines is a doorway to a new world.” - John Muir

The Gifted Tree welcomes you to the virtual world of finding your tree planting location. As you know, someone has planted a gift tree in honor of you or someone you love. Your tree has been or will be planted in the Fundy Biosphere Reserve area of New Brunswick, Canada. New Brunswick is home to some of the most ecologically diverse forest types in Canada, as well as one of the most endangered. With a moist climate and a historically very low risk of fire, these forests are ideal for storing carbon and a prime region for focusing climate change resilience efforts.

The primary goal in planting trees in New Brunswick is to increase species diversity and promote climate change resilience. Forests—like the Acadian Forests—will return to a healthy ecosystem, promoting biodiversity and helping mitigate the effects of climate change. Many of these forests are also frequented by local communities and schools, providing important learning and educational opportunities.

Reforestation of these Acadian Forest areas will promote wildlife connectivity, water retention, and carbon storage. By planting a diversity of native species - Red Spruce, White Pine, and Red Oak - we can help the site regenerate quicker and healthier than would be possible if left alone.

You can view the general area of your planting by clicking on the following link:

Once connected to the map, feel free to zoom in and out to get a feel of the general planting area as well as its location in Canada and the world. The link is best viewed on a personal computer. Please understand that this is the general area of your tree planting. Your tree is planted among thousands of other gift trees and there is no plaque designating your gift tree and visiting the tree is unfortunately not possible.

Enjoy your gifted tree and know that it is making a monumental difference for the earth and opening a new doorway to the world for future generations.
